Tracing and Positioning with the Free Transform and Warping Layers Photoshop enables you to position objects and perform changes in their size and shape on separate layers. The layers are arranged on a stack of image layers, and you can work with the layers on the stack one on top of the other. Every change made to one layer in the stack is reflected on the other layers in the stack. By default, layers are stacked on top of each other, and you can make multiple layer stacks with different colors for different purposes. The different styles and colors help you understand how to use Photoshop's features and tools to create different effects. The 50 Photoshop Tips and Tricks for creative people (see Appendix A) explains how you can make wonderful effects using the tools in Photoshop and often without even using the actual tools. In this section, you learn the basics of positioning and transforming layers. To begin, open an image in Photoshop and place the Free Transform tool on it. Your image should be in its default color space, which gives you only limited controls over your image's color. You must select the layer you want to edit before you can make a change in the color. Before you make any changes, however, you can use the Select As button to deselect the current selection and make a color change in 66 B.R. 641 (1986) In re CHARLES L. NOLL, INC., Debtor. CHARLES L. NOLL, INC., Plaintiff, v. The PENNSYLVANIA NATIONAL MUTUAL CASUALTY INSURANCE COMPANY, Defendant. Bankruptcy No. 84-01814G, Adv. No. 85-0369G. United States Bankruptcy Court, E.D. Pennsylvania. October 1, 1986.

*642 Charles L. Noll, pro se. Albert G. Bess, St. Paul, Minn., Sherry F. Strano, Media, Pa., for defendant. OPINION EMIL F. GOLDHABER, Chief Judge: The issue at bench is whether the insurance carrier for the debtor in a bankruptcy action may offset a previously released debt against the debtor's claim against the carrier. We conclude that the debt was previously released and that the insurance carrier is entitled to offset that debt against its claim. The facts of this case are as follows:[1] On December 14, 1984, Charles L. Noll, Inc. (the debtor) filed a Chapter 7 petition. Subsequently, the debtor filed a complaint to recover the value of leased trucks and the cost of repairing the vehicles, i.e., the equipment repossession costs, as well as the cost of insurance, $14,500, and the cost of towing charges, $5,158, for a total sum of $20,658. The complaint named The Pennsylvania National Mutual Casualty Insurance Company ("Penn National") as defendant. The debtor sought judgment against Penn National for these expenses, damages for the alleged breaches of contract and provisions of an insurance agreement executed by the parties, and indemnification. On February 6, 1986, Penn National filed an answer to the complaint and a notice of setoff. Penn National asserted that an indemnity agreement executed between Penn National and the debtor allowed the $20,658.00 debt to be setoff against Penn National's claim. The debtor responded to Penn National's answer and the notice of setoff by filing an objection to the setoff. The case was heard and a judgment was entered against Penn National for the sum of $20,658. On July 22, 1986, the debtor filed an amended complaint against Penn National for the same damage claims that were raised in the original complaint. Penn National filed an answer

Q: How to parse nested JSON objects in java? I have the below JSON Response. { "id":"1", "contents":[{ "id":"2", "contents":[{ "id":"3", "contents":[{ "id":"4" }] }] }] }

] } This is the Response I get from the server. How can I parse this in Java, using Jackson. A: It looks like you need to nest two things, so start with an object then add another object. Here is the structure of the JSON: { "contents": { "id": "2", "contents": { "id": "3", "contents": { "id": "4" } } } } You will need to use Jackson to convert it to a Java object. In order to do that, you need to create a pojo class that matches the structure of the JSON. Here is one:

import java.util.List; import org.codehaus.jackson.annotate.JsonIgnoreProperties; import org.codehaus.jackson.annotate.JsonPropertyOrder; @JsonIgnoreProperties(ignoreUnknown = true) @Json

System Requirements:
